Quality Assurance

Is it safe?

Is it safe?

What makes a high quality pump repair? We look at the details. Starting with a thorough inspection of the process, extensive process control procedures and exact acceptance criteria, engineering support and review - all carried out by our experienced service technicians.

At AxFlow we work strongly with quality issues such as supplier assessment and product quality control to make sure they fulfil our quality standard.

To ensure the high level of quality all products, spare parts and repair work includes warranties as well as documentation and product traceability.

Our suppliers have the appropriate certificates and approvals such as CE declaration of conformity, ISO9001, ISO 14001 certification, CE Mark, 3-A, ATEX and EHEDG.

All to assure you - peace of mind.

Our complete portfolio of services includes:

AxFlow quality goals are...

- To become your partner by offering you a complete pump and mechanical seal solution
- To offer you the most comprehensive expertise and knowledge in the process industry
- To be your first choice when considering your pump and mechanical seal requirements
- To continue to provide a short turn round which is often made possible by our ability to repair pumps
- To promote our quality goal of “right first time” and to strive to achieve perfection
